Processing data (Please regard the Universal File Name Convention!)

You will receive the final file name for the file name field below from the database as soon as you have uploaded a PDF.

This means: please complete your transliteration form with the generated file name, make it a PDF again and upload it a second time to the corpus - for the sake of completeness and conformity.

-> File name of this text transliterated to IPA: NM_RO_pro_tal_M looks like this, cf. "Universal File Name Convention". Example:

SK_CS_pro_tal_M_00001.***, i.e.

SK _	CS _	pro _	tal _	M _	00001
Dialect -	Collector -	Genre 1/formal -	Genre 2/content-	University -	serial no.
Surgut Khanty -	Csepregi -	Prose -	Tale -	Munich -	Text 1 of x

Coordinator's name (only surname): Riese

Source data

NOTE: – Please use the following structure:

[Surname], [First Name] [Patronym] [(Maiden name)], e.g. Sopočina, Agrafena

Semënovna (Pesikova)

- All names in transliterated into Latin characters (use the Transliteration Table for Cyrillic and Latin characters which can be found on the homepage)

Informants' / Authors' names (separated by semicolon):

Collectors' / Authors' names (separated by semicolon):

Editors' / Contributors' names (separated by semicolon):

Source publication (if known): Rombaneeva (1996) "Mansi mojtyt", pp. 15-22; Kálmán

(1976) "Wogulische Texte mit einem Glossar", pp. 68-75

Conventions:

- Only in IPA transliteration
- Keep the original text layout which is consistent with the reference publication (i.e. paragraphs, symbols for the structuring of dialogues, punctuation characters, quotation marks)

Exception: Some collectors use brackets in their texts. Delete all brackets which stand within words but keep their content! These brackets mark parts of words which differ from the lexicon entry because they are situative or phonetic variants. Since we consider these differing word forms as allomorphs or phonetic variants in the lexicon, please leave out the brackets but keep the content. This means that in the lexicon we have to add the variants afterwards. Please remember to add the free variant.

Original: mətʌ[i]

Transliterated: mət̪i

cf. lexicon entry: mət̪i with the subentry "Free variant": mət̪

The screenshot shows a lexicon entry for the word 'mət̪i'. The entry is labeled 'Entry' and has a 'Show Hidden Fields' button. The main text area contains the IPA transcription 'mət̪i', followed by its definition '(fr. var. mat̪) ind/pro Eng something Rus ԿՈՒՇ', and its German translation 'Ger etwas Hun valami Fin jotakin'.

- No capital letters at the beginning of a sentence (possible exception: proper names)
- The following elements have to be enclosed in hashes (#):

- a) Meta data (speaker's name, numbering of paragraphs or sentences etc.),
e.g. #2.# or #Ivan Sopočin:#
  - b) All punctuation characters or groups of punctuation characters – even if it includes blanks, e.g.
#.# or #,# or #:# or #."# or #：“# or #–# or #–,# etc.
  - c) Notes: - The usage of the hashes (#) don't influence the normal usage of blanks.
- If such a character group consists of punctuation characters belonging to different sentences, these groups have to be split up by hashes. For example:
GOOD EXAMPLE: i:t nə:j ja:stə:təy#.# #“#ju:rə:j le:k, pə:rə:j le:k#.”#
BAD EXAMPLE: i:t nə:j ja:stə:təy#. “#ju:rə:j le:k, pə:rə:j le:k#.”#
- A special rule needs to be observed in the case you process a text which belongs to poetry. If the text is rather structured in lines than in sentences please keep the original line layout, though. But additionally, please put the following combination of symbols at the end of each line: #|# (includes the "pipe"; Unicode 007C) – even if there is any punctuation.

The reason is that we want to enable more than one view option on the homepage later: one according to sentences and one according to lines.

For example:

o:msəm xo:t te:t a:r xu:jem#,# sar #|#
xu:lam xu:łantiłatan-u:#!# #|#
